How They View It.

The United States government has invited all the governments of the new world to take part in a congress to be held in Washington under the watch word of "United America" and especially "America United Against Europe." Uniform weights, measures and coinage are to be in-troduced, a court of arbitration ap pointed to settle all disputes between American states. Encroachments of European states in connection with American affairs are to be jointly op posed and the most important of all, a uniform tariff of rates on custom er to be at home with the rollers." duties is to be established.

How Two Dover Girls Paid a Bet.

A Couple of Dover's leading belles created a sensation in this staid old capitol the other evening by trund ling a well known butcher of sporting proclivities down the entire length of the principal thoroughfare in a wheelbarrow. The young ladies were talking one day about some of on the baseball ground that after lands. noon, when the butcher came along and joined in the conversation.

After insinuating that a lady ney er paid her wagers if she lost, he bet that there was a letter awaiting him in a grocer's wheelbarrow, while if he lost he was to treat to the ice the bet and the trio visited the post office. The letter was there. It took the girls just about five minutes to borrow the shabbiest looking wheel barrow in town, and in a trice they, had it before the postoffice, where by this time quite a crowd had assem-

The butcher tried hard to beg off, but willing hands dumped him in the wheelbarrow, and one of the maidens seized the handles. Off they went at a rapid gait without regard to the rider's bodily comfort. Hundreds of persons gathered to see the show, but it was the butcher and not the girls who felt out of place. Before they had gone a square he had offered to buy them everything from a quart of ice cream to a silk dress apiece if they would let up.

so one of imposing grandeur and Secretary Blaine, who conceived it, will thereby surely add numbers to the rank of his party. Perhaps it was with this view that this bold conception was launched, rumors of which had been current for some time.

That the success of Mr. Blaine's device, the article continues, would be of great and disagreeable consequence to Europe is easily understood. Europe ships a large part of its manufactures to South America and our Austrian producers well know the value of their Brazilian and Argentine customers, who purchase their china, glass, paper, fancy goods, shoes and other articles exported to those countries. If those ports should be closed to us by tariff rates as high as those in the United States, a large part of our workmen and a still larger part of our workmen and a still larger part of German, French and English laboring men would be in danger of losing their employment. There is, therefore, every reason for reflecting seriously regarding this matter and for not dismissing it as being too far removed. It would be a serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she as serious loss to Europe if the politicians of Washington should she
